VALENTINE
CHRONICLES
LONDON & WENDY

BN Agent, R

While many spent this past week spreading love and showering those dearest to them with love, there was drama unfolding on social media. Three women, Cindy Patrice Daxon-Knowles, London Major and Wendy Fox had the country's undivided attention as they bickered publicly. It is alleged that Cindy Patrice Daxon-Knowles the once notorious "Facebook bully" attempted to extort London Major out of a sum of cash. London Major was not entertaining it and stood her ground. When it comes to London VS Cindy, London didn't have any tea to spill on Cindy aside from name calling and Cindy claimed that London is barren.

Now, let's get into the part you're still reading for. In the case of Wendy Fox VS Cindy Patrice Daxon-Knowles, it is evident that the pair were once really good friends. Wendy stated that she is the Godmother of two of Cindy's children, which tells us that this was no new friendship. It is alleged that, the gal pal duo's friendship went downhill when Wendy's sister's $4,000 was unaccounted for at the hands of Cindy Patrice Daxon-Knowles. Cindy decided to go live and "mishandle" Wendy's name. This is when all hell broke loose. Wendy took to her social media platform to oust her former friend. The information that Wendy revealed in her live feeds regarding Cindy left the nation shook.

In past times, Cindy would post video after video. However, no videos of Cindy have been uploaded since Thursday. It appears that Cindy's world has been rocked because she is more quiet than usual.

SCARE TACTICS BY SURROGATES OF THE FNM

BN Agent, X

From a matter that has already been visited by the Bahamian Supreme court, now hits the U.S. soil, Peter Nygard is accused of raping multiple women in a U.S. sex lawsuit. While U.S. news media companies are keeping the spotlight only on Peter Nygard, some Bahamian News outlets are trying to tag along PLP members. Which has the leader of the opposition calling these allegations, "Scare Tactics".

Brave went on to say "I hope the Bahamian people would see the allegations for what they are, mere scare tactics by surrogates of the FNM."

Progressive Liberal Party (PLP) Leader Philip Brave Davis yesterday called the allegations linking party members to a federal class action lawsuit accusing Canadian fashion designer Peter Nygard of sex trafficking "mere scare tactics".

Davis further suggested the claims that party members were bribed with sex with underage girls and cash, contained in the federal complaint filed last week, were perpetuated by Free National Movement (FNM) "surrogates".

"It is a stretch to link the PLP and anyone of its member to allegations that form the basis of the complaint in that there is no basis," he said.

"It is a stretch and it is the usual sort of spin, political spin that the FNM, through its surrogates attempt to, their surrogates put out these salacious things to try to smear the PLP. Davis said: "But, it is not the PLP that is going to be smeared. I mean we are not going to allow them to do it without pointing out the folly of their ways and the errors of their conclusions."

In a statement yesterday, the FNM said the allegations of Nygard's involvement in a sex trafficking ring are "revolting beyond imagination" and called on the PLP to speak "fully and truthfully" to the claims.

"If proven true, these allegations mean many young women were robbed of their childhood and had their lives tragically altered forever," the FNM said.

"The PLP must now speak up clearly, fully and truthfully regarding the allegations in this complaint. A political party that condones such sick and depraved [alleged] activity on the part of any of its members is unfit to govern The Bahamas."

The federal class action lawsuit filed in a Manhattan Court on Thursday, details allegations of a decades-long sex-trafficking scheme that Nygard and his companies knowingly facilitated and benefitted from and Bahamian officials were paid to ignore.

The class action complaint, claims Nygard bribed Bahamian police officers and further seeks to correlate the fashion designer's financial contributions and engagement with the Progressive Liberal Party as evidence of his political influence.

"I hope the Bahamian people would see the allegations for what they are, mere scare tactics by surrogates of the FNM."

In a separate statement, PLP Chairman Fred Mitchell said after examining the FNM's statement, he was certain the governing party is behind "this wicked propaganda campaign".

He encouraged PLPs to read with "caution and several grains of salt" articles published about the lawsuit.

UNDER THE RUG

ROLEX ROBBED OVER P.I.

BN Agent, X

At 11pm Saturday night, Rolex over Paradise Island was robbed by two individuals. The bandits were able to get away with hundreds of thousands of dollars worth of Rolex watches. Workers of the jewelry store say the two men walked into Rolex, one entered the store while pulling out his firearm and the other man broke open the showcases and started clearing out all of the watches he could see. Then shortly after they both swiftly ran out on foot and got away.

On record, the bandits smashed two showcase glasses and stolen an assortment of Rolex watches. Vehicles attempting to exit the Paradise Island Bridge were temporarily stopped as police searched for the suspects. In a statement, Atlantis said: "We can confirm that theft occurred at the Rolex store. The police were called and the matter is under investigation. Thankfully no one was injured." The Rolex store remained closed yesterday. A notice on the storefront read: "Rolex will be closed today.

Sorry for any inconvenience caused."

It's already hard to be listed as a bongie of the day in our paper. Would you believe today's pick made the cut consecutively one volume after the other? This shows that he has a very special gift when it comes to acting a fool. The guy who just told us Aliens were coming to the earth soon is now back giving out tips on what to do when you're hungry. Tip one, hustle your fans if your famous, Tip two, order chinese shrimp fry rice and some KFC chicken, Tip three do not share with anybody no matter the situation and that is why he is our bongie of the day once again. Because one he is about to catch the Corona as this may be his last meal and we wanted him to feel good about himself before going out from such a horrible virus. But outside of that hopefully we can find a cure faster than asia, because he may eventually need it.

SANDY POINT AIRPORT & LIGHTHOUSE UPGRADES

BN Agent, X

The Sandy Point airport will be expanded and enhanced under the heads of agreement signed between the Government of The Bahamas and Tyrsoz Family Holdings Ltd.

The existing airport will be improved in order to accommodate private jets and make it fully operational, inclusive of a fixed base operation, Prime Minister the Most Hon. Dr. Hubert Minnis noted at the agreement signing ceremony on Thursday 13 February at St. Martin's Episcopal Church Hall.

The airport expansion and renovation will include a terminal, parking area and runway extension.

The Queen's Highway roadway will also be expanded.

The development represents a minimum capital investment of $300 million and is expected to include a wide range of amenities, including the expansion and upgrade of the Sandy Point airport, a marina, golf course, clubhouse, restaurants, a retail and residential component, swimming pools, waterpark, utility services, resort accommodations and related amenities.

As a part of the community commitments outlined in the agreement, the historic Hole-in-the-Wall Lighthouse and surrounding area will get a $1 million-dollar facelift.

The operation and restoration of the lighthouse will be undertaken in partnership with the Government of The Bahamas, the Antiquities, Museums and Monuments Corporation (AMMC) and the Bahamas National Trust (BNT).

The Lighthouse's outbuildings will be renovated to provide a small museum of the area and a shop featuring local artisans and craftspeople. As a part of the Lighthouse renovation, the developer will:

invest up to $500,000 dollars to create a safe and secure facility for the public to climb to the top of the Lighthouse;

create the South Abaco Lighthouse Society (SALS), modeled after the highly successful Elbow Cay Lighthouse Society;

provide a perpetual contribution of $250,000 per year and assist with organizing donations, and;

invest up to $250,000 dollars to provide public access to the beach area near the Lighthouse.

Up to $250,000 dollars have also been committed to restore the Alexandria settlement ruins adjacent to the South West Point Development.

And $750,000 dollars have been committed for community development initiatives in Sandy Point, Abaco in coordination with the Sandy Point community and local government.

The developers have also agreed to cooperate with the BNT to help implement the conceptual plan for the Abaco National Park - up to $1 million - in certain agreed upon areas, including cleaning up the Abaco National Forest, signage, creating nature trails and a welcome center.

"We are an archipelago of enormous possibility, including a range of tourism amenities and services, with many linkages such as agriculture, fisheries, heritage tourism and the creative economy," said Prime Minister Minnis.

"The island groups of The Bahamas must be developed in a sustainable manner, bearing the unique island heritage and signatures of our diverse islands and cays."
